MASSIVE INCREASE IN "RACIAL ATTACKS" AGAINST WHITES!

Veronica Pascal beaten by Asian gang.

Richard Everitt stabbed to death.

"Victims' of the Multi-racial Experiment"

NOW WE SAY " No Justice. No Peace! "

The horrific catalogue of racial attacks on Whites by members of the ethnic minorities was bound to end in a fatality and, as such, the death of 15 year old Richard Everitt really came as no surprise. This is not a statement of "racial hatred" nor of "incitement" but one of fact! But what may I ask, was the reaction from our Nationalist parties?

If one event justified a march by the BNP or the NF, or even by BOTH, then this should have been it. If marches were banned, then a mass leafleting of the area "showing the flag" demanding "rights for Whites" could have taken place. It has long been known that the establishment parties are part of the conspiracy to turn our Nation into a "multi-racial" sewer, so who do our people have to turn to for representation and protection if not the British Nationalist parties?

Yes, there would have been condemnation by the media and accusations of "inciting racial tension" or "jumping on the bandwagon" would have been made, but since when have we ever had anything but condemnation by the "multi-racial puppets" of the NUJ?

A young White lad was attacked and murdered because of the colour of his skin by those, that as Nationalists, we believe should not even be in our country!

The respective leaderships of our Nationalist parties should be ashamed at their lack of action.

The British Police service are supposed to be impartial in performing their duties. We can witness examples of their impartiality when, as a result of two bombs in London, aimed, we are told, at Jewish targets, the local police provide armed officers to guard any target that the Jewish community felt was at risk. Now compare this with the bomb that went off in the BNP bookshop, injuring a Nationalist, or the one sent to a leading member of the National Front who also suffered injuries. Did Police Commissioner Paul Condon meet with Nationalist leaders and offer armed officers to protect them?

No!

Justice in Britain has been blinded by political correctness.

As this issue will be the last before Yuletide, let me take this opportunity of wishing you all a "Merry Yuletide, and a wish fulfilled New Year".

Each of us celebrates the Yule festival in our own personal way but most try to spend time with family and friends enjoying the comforts of Hearth and Home. How we celebrate is largely up to us, but please remember there are Nationalist Comrades who are not so fortunate. I refer to those that have given up their personal liberty for our cause, those who we term "Nationalist Prisoners of War".

People like Frank, Terry and Biggsy spring to mind. Three Nationalists who instead of spending the Yuletide in the comfort of Home surrounded by family and friends, will instead spend it in a prison cell.

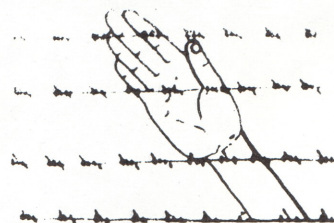

Please do not forget these and other Comrades who have sacrificed so much for our Race and Nation.

Whilst we at Sentinel are grateful to all of you who send us Yule cards, we would prefer it if instead you sent a card to our Nationalist prisoners. Let them know that at this time of celebration for our Nordic peoples, they have not been forgotten.

We owe them a debt of gratitude for their sacrifice, DON'T FORGET!

A list of POW's can be obtained from us, just enclose a SAE.

Merry Yuletide.

Forever in our thoughts!

Massive Increase in Race Attacks on Whites.

A Police source has confirmed to League Sentinel that there has been a massive increase in racial attacks on White people over the last twelve months. The increase has occurred on a country-wide basis, but has been particularly noticeable in East London, since the BNP councillor, Derek Beackon, failed to retain his seat in local council elections.

A catalogue of horrific attacks on Whites, both young and old has stunned East Londoners.

In Poplar, 20 year old Paul Chimes was slashed and stabbed in the lung in an unprovoked attack by a gang of 15 Asian youths, whilst in Bethnal Green, a 43 year old unnamed White man was beaten to the ground, and then slashed about the head and face by a gang of four Asians.

The most cowardly attack was on a 63 year old widow, Mrs Veronica Pascal, who was beaten about the head and body with a baseball bat by three Asian teenagers who shouted "You White b*d, THIS IS OUR COUNTRY, NOT YOURS". Then, as she lay on the ground, the scum SPAT on her!

This elderly lady was hospitalised for over a week and is now afraid to leave her home. Police confirmed that they were treating all of the incidents as "racial attacks".

The battered faces of Paul Chimes and Mrs Veronica Pascal. Beaten and stabbed because they are WHITE !

Although London seems to have bore the brunt of the increase in racial violence, the trend has spread to other parts of the country as well.

In Sheffield, two recent attacks by Asian gangs on White youths has left the former steel town horrified.

Trouble flared in the suburb of Darnall, when a 17 year old schoolboy, Brett Davison, suffered a crushed cheekbone during an attack by Asian youths in a school playground.

Whilst in nearby Arundel Gate, a 22 year old White youth needed 50 stitches to a face wound, caused when he was stabbed and slashed in the face with a broken bottle, by a 20 strong Asian gang.

Richard Everitt.
15 years old, and murdered for being
WHITE!

In Walsall, a gang of 15 Asian youths rampaged through the main shopping area, the Saddler Centre, attacking White shoppers with baseball bats and machetes. One elderly man was hit in the face as he sat on a bench, and several women shoppers suffered serious cuts and bruises. Local Police at first denied the attack was racial, but in view of the fact that all the victims were White, and of the eight people arrested all were Asian, any other motive than racial hatred seems unlikely.

Somers Town, North London, just a couple of miles from the council ward that Derek Beackon represented, was the scene of the brutal murder of 15 year old Richard Everitt, stabbed to death by a 10 strong Asian gang, in an unprovoked attack. Another victim of the multi-racial nightmare that successive Governments have inflicted on our Nation.

Not surprisingly, the "anti-Fascist movement" has remained silent about these attacks. No "protest" marches have been organised by the Labour party or the TUC, no "demo's" called for by the Militant dominated "YRE", no "riots" organised by the Anti-Nazi League and no visits to Richard's grieving parents by Nelson Mandella or even any British politicians.

Local White youths demonstrated their frustration by burning down an Asian owned shop, but it was an anonymous card on a wreath of flowers laid at the scene of Richards murder which told the truest story of this sad affair. it read, "IN MEMORY OF RICHARD, A VICTIM OF THE MULTI-RACIAL EXPERIMENT".

Is This The NEW Face Of The Labour Party?

As soon as Tony Blair was elected as the new leader of the Labour Party, he told the media that under his leadership Britain would see a "new Labour party, a party of the 90's". In this article, League Sentinel takes a short look at Blair, and speculates both on his possible choice of Ministers, and the future for British Nationalist aspirations, under a future Labour government.

Blair is 'supportive' on Israel

New Labour leader wants tougher laws against racism

By GARY OLIVER

Amongst the first letters of congratulations received after his leadership election victory was from Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, who has been quoted as saying that "Blair is the most supportive Labour leader since Harold Wilson".

Board of Deputies President, Eldred Tabachnik Q.C; revealed that he and Blair had shared Legal Chambers for a while when Blair was practising law, and commented that he found Blair to have "a good understanding of the British Jewish community and of Israel".

Blair has already spoke of his commitment to the introduction of new laws against group libel and racial violence, all measures frequently DEMANDED by the Board of Deputies!.

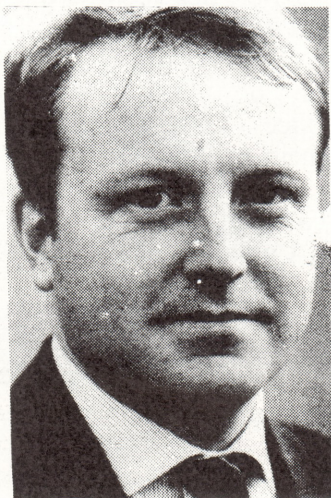

The Leader.

The Chief Whip.

The Chief Whip is responsible for ensuring discipline amongst M.P.'s; and what more obvious choice for this demanding task than the deputy leader of the South Tyneside Labour council, Stephen Hepburn?

Hepburn, was recently found guilty of assaulting a fellow councillor by "putting him a headlock, punching him the face twice and then threatening to kill him". Gateshead magistrates fined the Socialist thug £75 for the assault. What better credentials for controlling party discipline?

Cllr Stephen Hepburn, "strong on discipline"

Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The important post of managing Britain's finances under a Labour government must surely go to the Deputy Mayor of Liverpool, Petrona Lashley, who in 1974 admitted running a brothel! In addition to this rather old fashioned way of raising funds, Petrona also has three convictions for "being a common prostitute".

Her expertise with money was well demonstrated in 1986 when she was convicted of 14 charges of "obtaining property by deception" as well as at her last court appearance, in 1990, when she was fined £500 and ordered to pay £150 costs in a case of FRAUD!

Petrona Lashley, "experienced at raising funds" or could be "deputy chief Whip"

Minister of Transport.

This post is purpose made for Hackney North? M.P. Dianne Abbott. Dianne has already found a unique way of cutting travelling costs but unfortunately was caught by ticket inspectors, "travelling without a valid ticket" and fined £10 for "Fare Dodging". No doubt, Dianne's first Ministerial move will be to reduce costs by sacking all ticket clerks and inspectors!

Dianne Abbott, "cheaper fares for all policy"

If this is the "NEW" face of Socialism for 1994, then it's not much different from the current Tory government is it? Full of either Board of Deputies "puppets", bullies and crooks!

WHAT A FUTURE FOR BRITAIN!

London Bombings.

Was Mossad Behind The London Bombings ?

A source close to the Home Office has revealed that the authorities are investigating suggestions that the Israeli Secret Service "MOSSAD" was responsible for the bomb attacks on the Israeli Embassy in Central London and the offices of the Joint Israel Appeal in North London.

The investigations, we were told, centre around two peculiar set of circumstances. The first is how were Israeli diplomats able to issue "specific warnings" to the British Foreign Office of "imminent attacks" ten days before the attacks took place. A fact acknowledged by Foreign Office officials?

Similar warnings had also been given to the Police, a month before the explosions, by the shadowy "Defence Committee" of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, who have long been suspected of having a closer, than would be expected, relationship with the secret service of a foreign country.

Secondly, there is also a degree of suspicion that the bombs were of such a sophisticated design, which enabled them to produce a "blast effect" that would be more "spectacular", rather than causing serious damage. A former soldier confirmed to League Sentinel that this would be a simple task for experts who would probably use similar technology used to produce "stun grenades".

The motive behind the attacks is believed to be associated with the government's refusal to ban a planned conference of Islamic Militants to be held at the Wembley conference centre at which several well known Palestinian freedom-fighters were thought to be attending. The demand for the ban had come from the Mossad influenced, "Association of Jewish Ex-Servicemen" (AJEX).

The degree of suspicion by the authorities that Israel did have some involvement in the bombings was demonstrated when the police sealed off roads in North London and used a controlled explosion to open a vehicle parked suspiciously outside St John's Wood Synagogue. It transpired that the car belonged to a Jewish tourist visiting his girlfriend, information the police could have obtained quite easily before damaging the vehicle.

The authorities have gone to amazing lengths to disguise their suspicions, spending tens of thousands of pounds of taxpayers money in using armed police to guard all Jewish properties identified as "at risk" by the Board of Deputies.

The Board have also found themselves in the invidious position of almost having the Metropolitan Police Commissioner, Paul Condon, under their orders. Certainly, it is the Board who are telling the Police what to guard and, according to the influential Jewish Chronicle, Commissioner Condon has also agreed not to change the security measures without prior consultation with the Board!

It has long been acknowledged that Mossad often work to their own agenda, and IF responsible for these "own goals" it is unlikely that their true motives will ever be discovered. Similarly, such is the extent of their experience in this type of operation, gained, and improved on since the "King David Hotel" in 1948, that arrests of the perpetrators is NOT expected.

"Spectacular" damage in North London.
Could it be the work of MOSSAD ?

Since his entry into politics in 1918, no one man has attracted more interest from students of British political history than Sir Oswald Mosley. His death, in December 1980, did nothing to stem the flow of interest in this fascinating figure. But what did he stand for? What were his policies? This article, written by a post-war Mosleyite gives an illuminating insight to Mosley's vision of the future, Britain's future, Our future!

THE FIRST EUROPEAN.

No man in modern British political history has excited so many diverse emotions as the great visionary, Sir Oswald Mosley. Cast variously as a demonic spectre of the 1930's and a prophetic thinker of the post-war era, Mosley remains an enigma to many with so much of the truth clouded in myth and the facts submerged under the sheer weight of lies and misrepresentation.

References to Mosley in television documentaries emphasis the part he played in leading and organising the Blackshirts of British Union, with particular emphasis on the events leading up to "the Battle of Cable Street", a disturbance in an area of East London gone down in Leftist mythology as a "people's victory over Fascism". In fact, it was an organised conspiracy by Communists and Jewish organisations whose only answer to Mosley's political message of national reconstruction was the systematic use of physical violence. It was this recurring theme of physical threat against

Mosley's Blackshirts which detracted from the political message (the real fear of the Communists) and led to the creation of a violent ethos undeservedly attributed to those patriots who supported Mosley. The Blackshirts were not formed as an offensive force. Their main purpose was the defence of free speech in order that Mosley's message to the British people could be heard and ultimately prevail. To many, Mosley had the answers and, for those people, the ideas should be heard in order that the British people could consider an alternative. In this article we are concerned with Mosley's ideas and not so much with the myths surrounding this controversial figure. The reader will begin to understand the reasons for some opposition from certain vested interests through an extrapolation of these ideas.

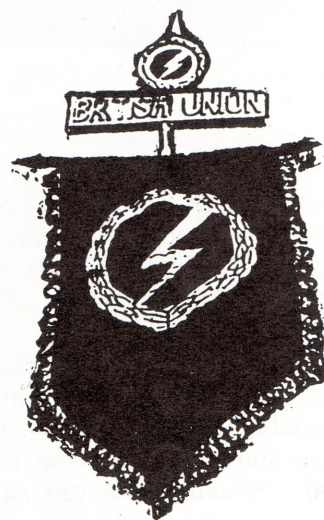

In the vast span of Mosley's political life, the phrase attributed to his Fascist ideas was relatively short. British Union was formed in 1932 and disbanded in 1940. From 1948 up to his death in 1980 Mosley expounded a political idea which he described as "going beyond Fascism and the old-style democracy" and encapsulated in the slogan "Europe a Nation". For thirty-two years Mosley was undoubtedly the most lucid and persistently vocal exponent of an idea as yet in an embryonic state. Yet, his opponents today attempt to brush his more mature and visionary thinking aside in favour of the image of the Fascist orator, long since out of date and consigned to the conditions of the inter-war years. Some people within the Nationalistic movement are equally guilty of this misrepresentation but more through a nostalgic disposition than anything malicious. British Fascism was a peculiar phenomenon of the 1930s which arose to face the crises and conditions after the First World War only to be radically changed after the catastrophe of another war. Fascism was not only militarily defeated but a new and changed world demanded a transcending of pre-war thinking, particularly bearing in mind the demise of the old Imperial power structures which left some European nation-states bereft of pre-eminence.

Mosley opposed Britain's involvement in a second European war because he knew it would mean the end of the British Empire. Churchill said he would never "preside over the liquidation of the British Empire" but threw everything away while at the same time embracing Stalin and colluding in the carve-up of Europe after that conflict.

To Mosley, the end of Empire made nationalistic Fascism redundant because a pivotal aspect of Fascism had concerned itself with embracing the resources of that Empire. Just as a global empire covering nearly a quarter of its surface offered the resources for creating a new and more just economic system so too could a continental union of several hundred million Europeans linked with Southern Africa, the White Dominions and possibly South America. The idea of a European brotherhood had been implanted in Mosley's mind from his days in the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War. Airman on all sides were conscious of that brotherhood and felt themselves to be part of a wider community. Mosley's Europeanism was developed and expounded in an essay in 1937 entitled, "The World Alternative". It was a serious attempt to steer away from the far too nationalistic element in contemporary Fascism to that sense of European communion which, without any doubt, would have averted the second European war.

During internment without charge or trial during that war, he applied himself to developing his European vision into a coherent political philosophy. Released from the confines of prison and other restrictions, as early as 1946, he was to say "The Union of Europe becomes not merely a dream or a desire but a necessity. The Union of Europe is no new conception, the only novelty is its present necessity".

"A" wing, Brixton Prison. This is where Mosley was imprisoned between 1940-43

Former South African defence minister, Oswald Pirow, came to Britain to share a press conference with Mosley in 1948 and on being asked why he did not come to see Churchill or Attlee on the issues of Europe and Africa, Pirow replied "...because Mosley had been the first to suggest western union" and that, "Mosley's scheme alone included Germany and the other European states such as Spain and Portugal, which had a great part to play in the union of Western Europe".

In the same year of Pirow's visit, the Union Movement was formed to give Mosley a platform for advancing his concept of Europe a Nation and in a speech in October he set the tone, "Communism can never be met and defeated by a negative: Communism can only be defeated by a great positive. It is this positive idea which must emerge from the Assembly of Europe, whose high task will be to fulfil the will of the people to union....Let us turn from the old internationalism, which always failed and the old nationalism which is now obsolete, to the new idea of EUROPE A NATION".

Those of us who played a role in Union Movement knew we were the standard bearers of a lofty concept and forward looking vision which Mosley had introduced into the post-war age and which the weak-willed "leaders" of governments would eventually half-heartedly embrace and then only reluctantly.

Mosley's Europeanism differed so much from those who jumped on the band-waggon much later, the technocrats, the internationalists, the opportunists and those whose enfeebled reluctance could only be attributed to ossified brain tissue. Throughout Mosley's political life ran a recurring theme from his early days as a parliamentarian at the age of 22 up to those long years as the champion of a true European Union. That theme was the debt to be paid to those who had fallen in the horror of the trenches and in the air of the First Great War; the "war generation" which survived and found a world with meanings and values destroyed by the utter senselessness of that carnage. The old world was "stained with the blood of millions", to use his phrase, and he was determined that such interecine conflicts should not occur again between European brothers. As such, the essence of "Europe a Nation" was not simply an economic or political expediency, so characteristic of the policies of main-stream parties, but an act of faith on the highest moral level.

Mosley calls for "Europe a Nation"

For him, it was the atonement of sacrifice and the striving for the creation of a new world safe from the threat of senseless destruction. His consistency is illustrated by his declaration in February 1936, "Our generation was sacrificed to bring an end to the balance of power which divided European civilisation into two armed and hostile camps... again our generation is challenged to save the ideal of which the old men cheat us once again. Shall Europe be divided or unite?" And then on his return to politics after the second European war he wrote, "Europe was divided and thus alone the men of Europe could be conquered. Their love of country was used to destroy their continent. The best elements in Europe were divided by love; the worst elements were united by greed".

No other prominent politician spoke or wrote in such terms or with such depth of faith and belief. Always his guiding star was a European Union in a service of mankind but more, as a consequence of his earlier experiences, as a hallowed quest in the pursuit of justice for both fallen and survivors.

Mosley's vision of his Europe a Nation was no inward-looking fortress occasionally looking suspiciously out on the rest of the world. The greatest obstacle to European Union, as he saw it, was the memory of the conflict between Fascism and democracy which he saw as a quarrel belonging to an age which is dead, gone with the facts which gave it birth. His theme was reconciliatory.

"Europe must forget and forgive", he wrote in 1947, "if the continent is to live, in which resided our history and on which rests the hope of mankind". He regarded the Germans as possessing qualities essential to Europe. On being charged with being pro-German, Mosley said that "anyone who wants either to save Europe from destruction or to get things done in a new Europe must be pro-German, because if Germany is not brought into European Union, the West will be divided and the East will triumph". He concluded that Germany could only truly be part of a European Union as a united people in full possession of their land.

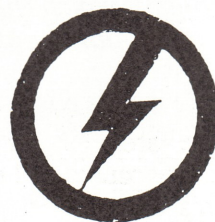

He stood for friendship with America but only on a basis of equality and not as dependents. The people who put us in a position of dependency were not Americans but some of our own people. He mocked the idea that you could like some European people and not others; he viewed it as the inhibition of language which could be overcome. He approached the problems of Africa with warm sympathy for the blacks. He called for a complete separation of black and white into two different nations in "strong contradistinction to the bogus apartheid which seeks to keep the negro in white territory".

Attacking Eden over Suez in 1956, he said, "They still talk of the Suez Canal as the life-line of British Empire, but they gave away the Empire at the other end of the life-line in the course of fighting a fratricidal war with Germany". He accused Eden's government of failing to devise a European policy and regarded the quarrel with the Arabs as "something that did not matter". Extending the hand of European friendship, Mosley declared, "Those of the Islamic faith are our natural friends and allies in the face of communism which challenges equally their beliefs and their civilisation". The one true policy was "the closest friendship with the sister Arab peoples whose interest is identical".

Mosley did not live to see the collapse of Soviet communism or the breaking up of the Berlin Wall prior to the re-unification of Germany. European Union is still not a reality, existing in name only. They lack the faith which guided Mosley for all those years. His ideas can still inspire another generation because they remain relevant.

Mosley kept faith with the people who trusted him. No man in modern times ever endured a greater test of character. That proved character added to the universal acknowledgement of his abilities which make him the man who can greatly serve Britain and Europe when our people too face the final test. We shall one day need such a man".

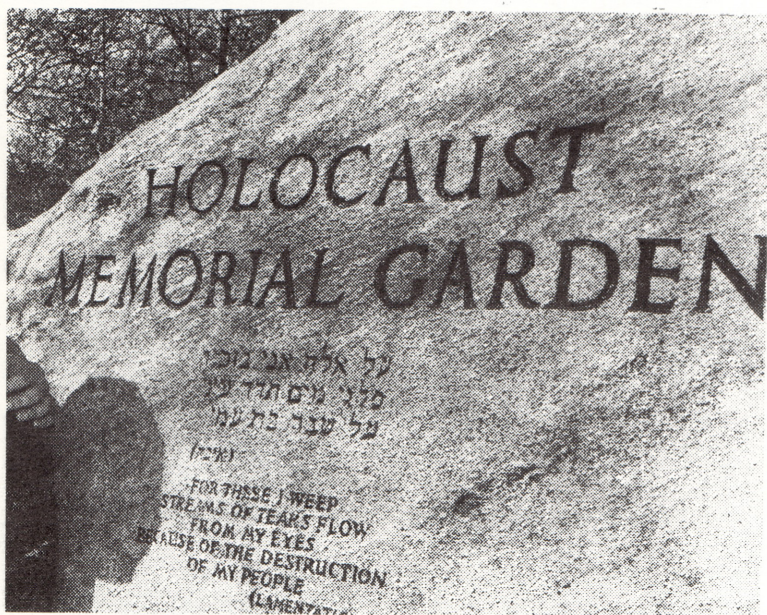

Jewish Establishment Still Perpetuates the "Six Million Myth".

Despite the admittance by the Soviet authorities, some years ago, that the mortality figures given by them at the end of the war for the Auschwitz labour camp were incorrectly exaggerated by two and a half Million, thus bringing down the total possible claimed mortality figures of deaths in labour camps, to a maximum of three and a half Million, the Jewish authorities still perpetuate the "Myth of the Six Million".

Certainly, six million was the figure prominently mentioned when over 1000 Jews gathered at Britain's Holocaust Memorial in London's Hyde Park recently to "remember the six million Jewish victims of the Holocaust".

At the "Holocaust Memorial Garden", set in a quiet glade of one of London's most beautiful parks, the Remembrance Ceremony sounded almost like a political event, with the Chief Rabbi, Dr Sacks condemning the growing power of "racist, anti-Zionist, anti-semitic, neo-Fascist politics throughout the world". Dr Sacks also claimed that "even as genocide was being planned its denial was being planned as well", a somewhat amazing allegation that he did not attempt to substantiate.

The guest of honour was the Israeli ambassador, Moshe Raviv, who neither confirmed nor denied that the Israeli government was considering erecting a Memorial in Tel Aviv, to those British Soldiers and Arab civilians who were murdered by Zionist terrorists during the campaign to establish the Jewish State.

Auschwitz toll to be cut by 2½million

From ANNA PUKAS
in Berlin.

THE death count at Auschwitz is to be officially reduced from the accepted figure of four million.

The decision was taken by the international council of Jewish groups and camp survivors who govern the Auschwitz Memorial Centre.

They declared the figure inaccurate more than a year ago and said it was produced by the Soviets, whose forces liberated Auschwitz in January 1945, as evidence in the Nuremberg war crime trials.

A quiet glade in one of London's most beautiful parks is desecrated by a memorial which is not only inaccurate but, has nothing to do with this country.

A cutting from a National daily paper confirming the six million is a "myth".

Austria.

Freedom Party capture One in Four Votes.

The Austrian Freedom Party, led by their charismatic young leader, Joerg Haider, have received 25% of all votes cast in the country's General Election. Campaigning on a "Stop Immigration" platform, the Freedom Party had to fight off a well organised "smear" campaign mainly organised by Austria's Jewish community, who tried to embarrass Haider by revealing that both his parents had been prominent members of the pre-war Austrian Nazi Party.

The Freedom Party now hold 41 of the 183 seats that comprises the parliament, and have stated that they will remain in opposition rather than take part in a coalition government.

Freedom Party leader, Joerg Haider, salutes Comrades after achieving 25% of the votes in the recent General Election.

United States.

The United States government has approved a "no pay back" foreign aid package for Israel of just over THREE BILLION DOLLARS.

Denmark.

An innovative Danish businessman has bought a wartime prison camp and turned it into a holiday centre! The camp at Froeslev, near the German border, now offers "bed and breakfast" in the old barracks for about £25 per night.

Predictably, there have been complaints by leaders of the tiny Danish Jewish community, and former communists who claimed to have fought with "the Resistance".

Germany.

In an unprecedented move, the German government has overruled the local council in Steglitz, a suburb of Berlin, and insisted that a "holocaust memorial" must be built in the town centre. The local council had previously refused Jewish authorities planning permission for the memorial claiming "there are already enough of these memorials in Germany". A council spokesman told League Sentinels German correspondent "for the State to overturn the wishes of the democratically elected council to favour the wishes of an unelected minority is a sure way of encouraging anti-semitism".

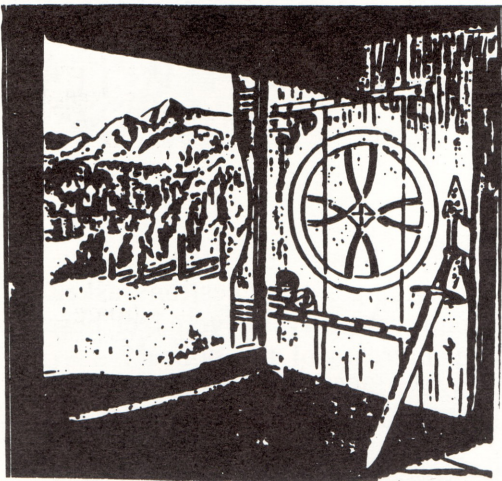

Jewish leaders who protested that a "National War Memorial" unveiled last November in Berlin, "did not specifically mention Jewish victims of the war" have been given permission to erect a memorial "dedicated specifically to Jewish victims" on the site of the former war-time chancellery building. The cost, £6 million, will be met by German taxpayers.

It is NOT expected that a reciprocal memorial dedicated to the Germans who died in the war will be built in Tel Aviv!

Belgium

The Flemish Nationalist Party, Vlaams Blok, has made massive gains in the Belgian local elections. In Antwerp, they almost doubled their seats to 18, thus becoming the dominant party on the 55 seat council.

In Brussels, the French-speaking Belgian Nationalists, Front National also won several seats, but not overall control.

HOME NEWS

London.

BNP poll 12% in East London by-election.

The British National Party astonished political observers by gaining 12% of the vote in the Shadwell ward of Tower Hamlets, despite the ward being predominantly Asian. The Conservatives polled just 3%.

The local newspaper estimated that the BNP had attracted some 35% of the "White" vote in the area.

The mis-named "British" Broadcasting Company, (BBC) has admitted that it has reserved 50% of its recruitment target exclusively for applicants from "ethnic minorities". BBC training centres in Glasgow, Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham and London, will only accept applicants of African, Asian, Caribbean and Chinese descent. This discrimination against Whites doesn't even end there, because the other seven BBC training centres will still take applicants "on merit", leaving non-whites free to apply at these centres as well!

A mural supposedly depicting scenes from the "battle of Cable Street" has been so badly defaced by local people that Labour run Tower Hamlets council has had to spend £18,000 to have it renovated by the original artist. But unfortunately whilst the artist was busy up a ladder painting, some local youths decided to paint their own mural, on the artists car! Cost of repairs are in the region of £1,000.

Slough, Middlesex.

When the body of a nine year old Asian boy, Akhlaq Ahmed, was found strangled in bushes in a local park, both the local Asian community and the local "anti-Fascists" were very quick to scream "Racial attack, Racial murder". But now, they are strangely silent following the conviction of a 17 year old Asian youth, Tahir Malik, for the murder. Malik, an active member of the local "Anti-Nazi League" was jailed for life.

The Media.

The much publicized Dispatches programme which promised to expose "nasty" groups such as C18 and their alleged links with the BNP, Loyalist "Terrorists" and possibly the Salvation Army, turned out to be a complete waste of time! The normal format of using silhouettes of people claiming to be BNP or C18 members (one of whom looked suspiciously like Ray Hill using a scots accent) gave an early impression that Dispatches knew nothing about the subject they were supposedly investigating. As the programme continued, the makers even managed to prove during a "reconstruction" of an alleged attack carried out by actors representing Nationalists, that Dispatches didn't even know the difference between a "baseball bat" and a "pickaxe handle".

As usual, the special advisor to the programme was none other than convicted criminal Gerry Gable. Gerry now seems to be making a lucrative living advising gullible television producers, and we wonder just who are his contacts both in the BBC and Channel 4 television?

VIEWPOINT

Viewers of Channel 4 television's "Between the Lines" programme should have noticed that amongst the credits is one for "Consultant"...Gerry Gable.

Now, this has set us wondering just what aspects of the programme has Gerry advised on? Could it be the scenes of gratuitous violence with experience gained from his friendship with Red Action? or could it be the constant "dirty tricks" used by Special Branch police officers? Perhaps future episodes may even show burglary for political means? Whatever the answer is, the inclusion of the Searchlight editor's name on the programmes "credits" has already prompted several Nationalists to rename the programme.. "between the LIES".

Environment Secretary, John Gummer, has bowed to pressure from Jewish religious leaders and approved the establishing of a Jewish "eruv" in North-West London.

The "eruv" is an area, in this case covering some six square miles of Hendon, Golders Green and Hampstead, which is of special religious significance to Jews and is basically an area linked together symbolically by thin wire supported on 20 foot high wooden poles. No thought or consideration has been given to militant Christians living within the Holy Jewish area and problems are anticipated following an increase in the sale of portable "chainsaws" from local shops!

Britain's Senior Judge, Lord Chief Justice Taylor, wants the police to record the colour of criminals and their victims. But what will happen when it shows that Blacks and Asians have a higher than average crime rate?

The statistics will be suppressed!

The Housing director of Hackney, East London, Mr Bernard Crofton, recently revealed that many Africans on his staff are illegal immigrants who have defrauded the council on a massive scale.

The loony-left council responded by suspending Mr Crofton and are now likely to instigate disciplinary measures against him.

A recent poll of serving police officers was taken by the, News of the World, newspaper and amongst the questions asked was "Which political party do you feel best represents the interests of the police"?

The Tories polled 20%, the Labour Party 19%, and the Lib-Dems only 5%. By far the largest slice of the vote, 32% went to the unidentified "others". Now who could that be ??

In issue 25, we mentioned the "Euro" results of the "New Britain Party". We have never regarded this miniscule group as being part of the Patriotic "Right" and, this letter published in the Jewish Chronicle seems to prove our point.

New Britain Party

In publishing the results of the European elections (JC, June 17), you wrote that the most successful far-right candidate was the New Britain Party's Melvyn Rendell, who collected 11,044 votes (5.65 per cent of the total poll) in the Cotswolds.

May I assure your readers that we are not a "far-right" party by any means. We welcome Jewish members of our party and we abhor the policies of such people as those in the British National Party and the National Front.

In the European elections, we fought five seats, in Yorkshire, Somerset and North Devon, Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and Milton Keynes, and the Cotswolds, and received a total of 36,669 votes.

Dennis Delderfield,
National chairman, New Britain,
London WC1.
